

About the author:

A lifelong resident of Minnesota, Brian Nichols has been married for 28 years and is the father of two daughters. He takes great pride in his community, and has raised his children to share his values regarding love of family and friends.

Brian is a partner in a business serving various manufacturing industries. He has a passion for soccer and indulges that by coaching high school and traveling soccer teams for over 25 years. In his spare time he enjoys playing with his Pit Bull, Maya, and irritating but lovable Beagle, Rossi. Brian is also an avid fan of all Minnesota professional sports teams.

The telling of this true story is Brian's first novel and he prays that he will never have such a life altering event as to justify writing a second.
